The survey measures employee opinions about their company's direction, execution, connection, management, work, pay, benefits, and engagement. The employers are placed into one of four groups: small, with 50 to 99 employees; medium, with 100 to 249 workers; large, with 250 to 999; and largest, with 1,000 or more.

"At TScan we are committed to advancing our clinical-stage pipeline across heme malignancies and solid tumors to deliver novel treatment options for patients with different types of cancer," said Gavin MacBeath, Ph.D., Chief Executive Officer. "I am truly thankful for the hard work and passion of our mission-driven team, whose continuous dedication to improving the lives of patients living with cancer creates an exceptional workplace culture."

"This is the third consecutive year that TScan has been recognized as a Top Place to Work, an achievement that reflects the dedication, inclusivity, and employee-centric values that define our organization," added Ann Hargraves, Senior Vice President of Human Resources. "The progress that we have made as an organization in just five years is a direct result of the committed and unified team we have built and the incredible culture we have cultivated."

The rankings in Top Places to Work are based on confidential survey information collected by Energage (formerly WorkplaceDynamics), an independent company specializing in employee engagement and retention, from nearly 68,000 employees at 323 Massachusetts organizations.
